Subject: Letter of Support for the OLSPub Project – An Alternative to PubMed

Dear Professor Förstner and Dr. Albers,

On behalf of [Publisher's Name], I am writing to express our strong support for the "Open Life Science Publication Database" (OLSPub) initiative. This project addresses a critical need within the global research community, considering the potential vulnerabilities associated with reliance on PubMed as a primary resource for scientific literature.

We recognize the importance of ensuring uninterrupted access to life science publications. Given the political and financial challenges impacting PubMed's sustainability, OLSPub offers a timely and necessary complement that will provide secure access to critical biomedical and life sciences data, thereby enhancing the resilience of the entire scientific literature infrastructure. Importantly, OLSPub is designed to serve as a reliable backup and support system that also benefits PubMed and its users in the United States by increasing overall technical redundancy and availability.

[Publisher's Name] is committed to contributing to this vital endeavor by providing our bibliographic metadata, including abstracts, for integration with the OLSPub database. By supporting this project, we aim to reinforce the resilient infrastructure for life sciences research and uphold the accessibility of high-quality scientific information.

Additionally, we appreciate the project's commitment to transparency and the collaboration with diverse stakeholders across Europe and worldwide. Our participation will not only ensure the continuity of scientific research but will also help drive further innovation and advancement in the global medical and life sciences community.

Thank you for leading this important initiative. We look forward to seeing the positive impact it will have on the scientific ecosystem.

Sincerely,
